The Opportunity

Like all sports to be the best isn't just the talent of the athlete we need backing from our sponsors and the team around us, a small amount goes a long way. F1, Cycling and other sports have seen amazing results for their sponsors, who gain exposure and global awareness.

But now Zara wants to raise the bar of women's windsurfing to a whole new level. Men's windsurfing has only just broken the 50 knot barrier in 2012. Zara is only a few Knots behind at 45.83 knots and believes with the right support she can be the first women to break the 50 knot barrier. If you think you can help and want to share in her success, read on.
